HOROSCOPE by Jacqueline

With Venus going retrograde in Aries on the 6th, we feel a restlessness with those who we love and what we love, but when Mercury goes into Pisces on the 8th it allows us to feel the truth, however be careful not to over analyze what's physically in front of you, especially after the Full moon on the 10th. The New Moon in Aries on the 26th allows us to start a new, let's keep it simple and go back to the basics. All of us are going through foundational changes in our life and we have the ability to allow the past to be left behind and walk towards what is truly important in our lives.

Aries March 23 - April 22 Your intuitive abilities have you questioning yourself this month, just keep it simple; try not to over analyze the situation, especially in your love life. As Venus goes retrograde in your sign on the 6th, you find yourself pondering, even second-guessing what you love and what you desire. Don't worry. When Mercury enters your sign on the 25th, you'll know if it's true love and your path in life will shine brightly.

Taurus April 23 - May 22 As the season's transition from winter to spring, you find yourself yearning for change; all of your questions will be answered. Fresh starts are in the air for you this month. Your artistic or creative side is awakened. Use this ability to move through the changes. You'll also find friendships that have been strained will ease now.

Gemini May 23 - June 22 Now is not the time for you to make critical decisions. Relax it's o.k. you don't have to make a choice now. Use this opportunity to do some fact-finding, ask your friends for information and advice and use it to find your own answer. Next month you can act upon what you've learned.

Cancer June 23 - July 22 The muse within you is begging for a chance to guide you to a new approach of seeing things. Take this opportunity and indulge yourself and let your artistic abilities flourish with the changing winds. Look towards the future and see what direction you need to go. Even though physically it may not appear to be going that direction, follow your instincts, stay the course and eventually you'll achieve your goals.

Leo July 23 – August 22 You'll find this month to be a turning point with love and work. Allow what has been set into motion to blossom and mature. Pamper yourself however, be the lion strong and proud and not to get talked into activities out of obligation. Follow your path and what serves you.

Virgo August 23 – September 22 This month you'll feel like you have two left feet! You're accident prone, so watch what you're doing and where you're going. Nothing is urgent and things won't go in a straight line. Be like the water you bear, go with the flow and worry not about when you'll get there, just be glad you did safely.

Libra September 23 – October 22 The winds of change are upon you this month, live for the moment and don't dwell on the past or future. As the scales balance out, you may find yourself in a completely different situation from the next. Welcome change, as the shifts are for the better in the long term. Go with the flow and don't anticipate the future.

Scorpio October 23 – November 22 The seas will be rough until after the full moon on the 10th, then it's smooth sailing ahead. With Mercury and Mars trining your sign this month, you'll find you have a velvet tongue. Use it to your advantage. Don't be surprised if someone from the past returns. However, rely on your intuition to know if you should allow them back into your life.

Sagittarius November 23 – December 22 Use this month to take charge of your life! Be unpredictable, use your intelligence and analytical thought processes to rally coworkers and peers and let them know in no uncertain terms of what you require from them. You'll get the recognition you deserve and a much-welcomed transition will soon occur.

Capricorn December 23 – January 22 Think before you leap! Over indulgence can get you in trouble now. Use your cognitive abilities and take a second look before you do anything now. You'll thank yourself later. This month is a good time to use your skill of persuasion to enhance your love life and work environment.

Aquarius January 23 – February 22 Life is still in the fast lane for you but this month you are able to take advantage of the unexpected opportunities that arise. With Jupiter transiting your sign, you have a guardian angel on your side. Take advantage of it.

Pisces February 23 – March 22 Happy Solar Return! The planets are shining on you now. You'll find this month brings pleasure with your friendships and personal activities which boosts your self esteem. Go with the flow and don't look for the insignificant flaws on your path.

For those who want to know: Chiron is transiting through Aquarius at this time. Chiron is the most recognized asteroid in Astrology and is thought to be as powerful as Pluto. It rules sudden change. With it in Aquarius now, all of us are experiencing sudden changes to guide us towards a better future. So, don't look at what it's taking away right now but what direction it's pushing you towards.

The rumors are still flying, Sharon still owns the Cold Keg and the fetish party is still happening on March 22. So just whatever you hear, remember that until there's a change all the rest is just BS. Oh, and when anyone hears we have said or done something, please let us know – it's awfully embarrassing to be the last one to know. We don't follow MySpace bulletins (we get around a hundred a day) and really have other things to do.

Mark, aka Freakin Rican, won the Chili cook off at REBAR. If you want his recipe just ask at the bar. It was yummy and the crowd

Did you see the Hillbilly Drag show at REBAR for the Pride of the Treasure Coast kickoff benefit on February 15? What a hoot! Pictures from the show are on page 18. The chili cook off was a great way to start out the evening and proved an effective way to keep the crowd there until the end to find out who won. Congratulations to Mark, the Freakin' Rican, for his amazing concoction which bested a large number of entries. It always amazes me how many different ways there are to make chili. Considering that there was free food and no cover I would have expected the place to be jammed – there was a nice crowd, don't misunderstand – it's just that we'd expected more people. Nonetheless, REBAR raised $1,513.69 toward the expenses of putting on Pride of the Treasure Coast. Oh, and Rob Lopicola was there. He's hosting again this year and once again there will be live music, food, vendors and, of course, a fabulous show. So mark your calendars: Pride of the Treasure Coast, noon to 6PM on April 19, at the new Port St. Lucie Civic Center on the corner of Walton Road and US 1. If you're a vendor and want forms, just go to www.MySpace.com/PrideOfTheTreasureCoast and look under their blog for the link.

I'm sure all the queens have already marked their calendars for the Miss Treasure Coast pageant at REBAR on April 6. The theme is Super Heros and is dedicated to Mercedes. We couldn't spot registration info from the ad on their MySpace but I'm sure if you contact Velvet or the bar they will fill you in – in the meantime you can go to www.MySpace.com/REBARpsl and watch the slide show of flyers for details. This is the first pageant at REBAR and just goes to prove that Jim and Jerry keep adding new events for their patrons. Should be a great time with some intense competition.

There were 14 designs in competition for the T-shirt logo for Space Coast Pride for 2009. The contest ran for three months and on line voting took place in January. If you didn't know about it, you weren't paying attention. The winner is a design by Brian McGowan. If you want to enter next year, you need to get on The Living Room email list so you will know when the competition starts. Just go to www.TLRbrevard.com and sign up for their newsletter. The logo was introduced, along with the artist, at the Space Coast Pride benefit at Cold Keg (see the logo and pictures from the benefit on page 19). As usual there was tremendous support from Port St. Lucie – Jim even moved his birthday party to the Keg! The result was a wonderful show with performers from Tampa and Daytona as well as PSL and

The Living Room has several different events going on, so being on their newsletter can open a number of opportunities. For instance there are about 80 people turning up March 6 for La Cage aux Folles at Riverside Theatre in Vero – we can guarantee that will be a gay old time! Rumor has it they will be doing a similar event for Dame Edna's appearance at the King Center in Melbourne on Saturday, April 4, at the same $25 price point. So for all you bargain hunting theater lovers, get on The Living Room's mailing list! We hear bowling is coming up soon and Gay Skate will be back at some point after Pride, which is their primary focus right now.

East Coast Christian Community (EC3) is focusing on a March event. It will be a “MySpace Pot Luck Picnic” on Saturday, March 21st, 11am to 5pm, in Pavilion #6 at Wickham Park (off Parkway Drive) in Melbourne. Everyone is welcome to bring a covered dish and to meet new friends. This is a great opportunity to drop by for some wonderful fellowship with folks from both their congregations and the larger community as well. If you are interested in attending

Spiritually Speaking

“Watch Those Ashes!”

Have you heard about the exasperated pastor whose patience had worn thin at his congregation’s lack of understanding of spiritual matters? One Ash Wednesday, he simply could not wait for the order of service to proceed with the expected line of parishioners to receive the ashes of repentance, so he sternly slung a shovel full of ashes at his horrified congregation. One parishioner was heard to remark in a whispered gasp, as they cleared away gobs of ashes from their face: ‘This is a terrible imposition!’

Well, so much for liturgical etiquette. But the point is well taken. Watch those ashes! God disturbs our sense of self-sufficiency and smugness as we prepare our hearts this Lenten season for the great mystery of Jesus Christ—crucified and risen. We are once again brought to the stark reality of our own mortality and of our own profound need for God. It is an ongoing experience; this coming to terms with ourselves, sin, and our relationship with our Creator. We reflect, pray, repent, and seek to change our ways to once again be found organized emotionally and spiritually, as we journey toward the Easter Feast some 40 days hence.

Very appropriately, Ash Wednesday has been termed: “The most uncomfortable day of the year.” Yet, I believe it can be a most understated joyous day of the year—for in it we declare our faith—not in sin—but in sin’s forgiveness. We are challenged to turn around and be transformed anew by the forgiveness and power of God. What does all this repentance really do for us in practical terms anyway? It creates an atmosphere of humility. People of faith are not perfect. We all need to take stock. We all need to take inventory of our hearts and minds, motivations and attitudes.

As the Psalmist, we realize we are nothing without God’s mercy in our lives; and we need to be cleansed and purged; healed and made whole. As the Prophet, we apprehend the urgency to blow the trumpet, sound the alarm, declare a fast and return with all our heart to the Lord: who is gracious, slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love. As the Gospel writer, who records the message of Jesus: we recognize our responsibility to put our repentant faith into action by prayer, abstinence, and charitable kindness. But these are to be done in deep humility, not in superficial pretense, or they mean nothing.

It all reminds me of the story, Beauty and the Beast; the story of a girl who married a monster. When this beauty kissed the beast, he was transformed into a man. I bet she was relieved. But, it is also a story of someone who wore a mask, a disguise—so hideous was his real face. What had begun as a disguise had been changed by a kiss into a reality of being made new.

Is not this the story of the Gospel? Humanity had fallen into sinful disobedience, taking shameful guilt-ridden masks to hide from God and ourselves. How ugly and monstrous we are apart from God. But, one day a kiss made all the difference. It was a redemptive kiss from One who, on a cross of suffering and pain loved us so much...that our lives are forever changed.

Beauty became as one of us, bestly as we had become, to once again restore us to original beauty. So we rid ourselves of all masks of pretense and pride. We are reminded that concealed inside each of us is God’s beauty just waiting to shine forth.

The prolific writer, C. S. Lewis, in his book, Mere Christianity, reminds us that our faith is not philosophy or even theology, it is a way of living. And once we finally live this challenge, evil is diminished in our world and good prevails. This is accomplished by becoming like Christ, who is true beauty. Lewis writes:

“God looks at you as if you were a little Christ:
Christ stands beside you to turn you into one...
Is not that how the higher thing always raises the lower?”

In other words, ‘beast becomes beauty.’ Christ became as one of us, so we could become as one of he. The higher always raises the lower... As we submit to the imposing liturgy of Ash Wednesday and this entire Lenten season, may we allow divinity to raise humanity once again; for this is an ongoing process. On this Lenten journey the trail of burnt palms lead to the glad triumph of the empty tomb... and so it is...Amen. ▼

HOLLYWOOD—Sean Penn wins the Oscar for Best Actor for his portrayal of Harvey Milk in Milk. Penn's moving acceptance speech addressing the injustice of Amendment 8 and his jibe at the protesters at the Academy Awards only highlights the importance of this win. Dustin Lance Black also won for best original screenplay for Milk. Black's emotional acceptance speech is a testament to the power of the Harvey Milk story. Milk is now guaranteed wider distribution and thus many, many more people will see the story of Harvey Milk's life.

LAKE WORTH—Compass GLCC presents the 16th annual PrideFest of The Palm Beaches noon to 6 pm on March 29 and 30 at Bryant Park in Lake Worth. As always there will be continuous entertainment on the stage and the Pride Parade will kick off at 11 AM on Sunday, March 30.

TAMPA—The University of South Florida now has an endowed scholarship for GLBT students.

The idea started a year and a half ago as a $1,000 fund and is now a $29,000 endowment with a $20,000 donation from Dr. Karen Berkman, chair of USF's President's Committee on Issues of Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity (CISOGI).

"We felt that this was something that we wanted to be at USF forever, and the only way to make that happen was to get an endowed scholarship fund," Berkman said.

USF is now among the few public universities in Florida to offer such a scholarship, said Merrell Dickey, Alumni Association director of chapter and corporate relations.

"It supports the president's initiatives to make USF a welcoming, inclusive community that is globally known and recognized for that - which then makes us as a university prestigious around the world," Dickey said. "Secondly, I think it validates the importance of the LGBT community in the area."

The scholarship is inclusive and available to all USF students and incoming freshmen, regardless of sexual orientation. Applicants must complete the USF General Foundation Scholarship Application, have a 3.0 grade point average and complete a personal statement indicating their contributions to the LGBT community.

Possible contributions include participating in activities that welcome campus diversity, performing research or writing a paper pertaining to the LGBT community, Dowdell said.

The scholarship is worth $1,000, with installments of $500 in the fall and $500 in the spring. A committee of USF alumni will choose the recipient.

The scholarship is currently a one-time scholarship, but Dickey said he hopes that as awareness of the LGBT scholarship increases so will the donations.

Once privately endowed scholarships reach $100,000, the University can apply to receive 50 percent matching funds from the state, Dickey said.

TALLAHASSEE—Representative Kelly Skidmore (D-Boca Raton) has filed legislation to update Florida's laws covering employment, housing and public accommodations to prohibit discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, pregnancy, familial status or marital status.

"All Floridians should have the opportunity to earn a living and provide for their families without fear of being unfairly fired or denied housing for reasons that have nothing to do with their job performance or their ability to maintain a home," said Skidmore.

For the third consecutive year, Skidmore filed her bill at the request of the Palm Beach

County Human Rights Council, a non-profit civil rights organization dedicated to ending discrimination based on sexual orientation, gender identity and gender expression.

While Florida has no comprehensive statewide law protecting gay and lesbian employees, several counties and cities have amended their fair employment and housing laws to cover "sexual orientation" and/or "gender identity or expression". These laws are in effect in Broward, Leon, Miami-Dade, Monroe, Orange, Palm Beach and Pinellas counties, as well as in the cities of Gulfport, Gainesville, Key West, Lake Worth, Miami Beach, Orlando, Sarasota, St. Petersburg, Tampa and West Palm Beach.

Across the nation, twenty states and the District of Columbia have fair employment and housing laws covering sexual orientation. The most recent thirteen of these states to enact such laws and the District of Columbia also include gender identity or expression.

As a result of state and local laws, 52% of the U.S. population now lives in jurisdictions protecting gay men and lesbians from discrimination. 37% of the U.S. population now lives in jurisdictions that also protect individuals based on their gender identity and/or expression.

Floridians believe gay men and lesbians should have equal rights in employment, housing, and public accommodations, according to polling results reported by the South Florida Sun-Sentinel on November 16, 2008.

When more than 1,000 Florida voters were asked whether homosexuals should have the same rights as everyone else to housing, job opportunities and public accommodations,

89% responded "yes."

Political party identification had little statistical impact on the results. 87% of Republicans, 90% of Democrats and 93% of Independents all support equal rights for gay and lesbian Floridians.

Age and gender also have no impact on support of equal rights. 88% of Florida voters 55 and over support equal rights for gay men and lesbians, as do 90% under age 55. Similarly, 90% of women and 88% of men are supportive.

Skidmore worked diligently in 2008, building legislative support for the bill. As a result, 31 of her House colleagues signed on as co-sponsors last year. Despite this support, the bill did not receive a hearing.

"Even though more than a quarter of the members of the Florida House of Representatives publicly supported the Skidmore Civil Rights Bill, former House Speaker Marco Rubio (R-Miami) refused to move the bill forward," said Hoch. "Hopefully, the House leadership will allow a hearing on the Skidmore bill this year."

State representatives Mark Pafford (D-West Palm Beach) and Maria Sachs (D-Delray Beach) were the first lawmakers to sign on as co-sponsors of the civil rights bill.

All of the state representatives who co-sponsored Skidmore's bill in 2008 are expected lend their support to the bill again this year. As public support continues to grow, Skidmore expects even more co-sponsors to come forward in 2009.

The companion bill is expected to be introduced in the Florida Senate later this month. The Council, which has been working with several state senators over the past few weeks, is optimistic that progress will again be made in the Florida Senate.

Last year's civil rights bill was sponsored by Senator Ted Deutch (D-Boca Raton). Senate President Jeff Atwater (R-North Palm Beach) signed on as a co-sponsor, as did Senators Dave Aronberg (D-Greenacres), Nan Rich (D-Fort Lauderdale), Charlie Justice (D-St Petersburg) and Jeremy Ring (D-Margate).

"Thanks to the efforts of Senators Atwater and Deutch, the bill was approved with bipartisan support by the Senate Commerce Committee," said Hoch. "Four Republicans and three Democrats voted in favor of the bill."

Politically, there does not appear to be any downside for elected officials to go on record supporting equal rights for gay men and lesbians.

"Not a single lawmaker who voted for, sponsored, or co-sponsored gay rights legislation has been defeated for re-election to the Florida House or Senate," said Hoch.

To date, Governor Charlie Crist has not yet made it clear where he stands on amending Florida's anti-discrimination laws. Even so, some activists are optimistic.

"Governor Crist has been a leader on civil rights over the years," said Council Vice President Deidre Newton. "We hope he will consider this an issue of fundamental fairness."

The Palm Beach County Human Rights Council has asked Governor Crist to join more than twenty governors around the country by issuing an executive order prohibiting discrimination in state employment based on race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, familial status, or marital status.

PALM SPRINGS, CA—There's a reason why Girl Bar Dinah Shore Week™ is known as the Greatest Women's Week on Earth. It's all about the GIRLS. On April 1-5, 2009, the Wyndham Palm Springs Resort becomes the center of the universe as Girl Bar presents its largest, wildest and sexiest line-up of events and top-tier entertainment.

That's why this year, ALL Girl Bar Dinah Shore Week main events, including Girl Bar's gigantic world-famous pool parties, are centrally located at the Wyndham (the main host hotel) and the luxurious Hotel Zoso. Additional room accommodations are also available at the Courtyard by Marriott.

And this year the Wyndham is ALL Girl Bar, ALL the time. And as the saying goes, "If it doesn't say Girl Bar – it isn't!" www.dinahshoreweekend.com

There is ample, convenient parking available on-site at the Wyndham. Plus, free shuttle service will connect all of Girl Bar's official hotels, with each one just steps away from historic downtown Palm Springs.

"Building on last year's record breaking events, we've got an incredible line-up planned for 2009 that will surpass what we've ever done before," said co-producer Sandy Sachs. "Our Wyndham pool parties will be larger, wilder, and sexier. Furthermore, West Point values are Duty, Honor, Country. That leadership, those values, are what this award celebrates."

On February 17 it was announced that Bruce Wayne from "The Dark Knight." Was the character from movies released last year who best embodied values-based leadership.

HAWAII—According to a report at lezgetreal.com, on February 12 the Hawaiian State House of Representatives passed a Civil Unions Bill that would give same-sex partners the same rights as marriage by a vote of 33 to 17. The bill now goes on to the Hawaiian Senate where it is expected to face an all-out challenge by same-sex marriage opponents.

CHICAGO—Mayor Richard M. Daley has appointed Ron Huberman, a 37-year-old openly gay man, to head the nation's third-largest school system. Huberman has previously served as Mayor Daley's chief of staff and as CTA president after rising from beat cop to assistant deputy superintendent.

Support for the LGBT Community

"While we have come a long way since the Stonewall riots in 1969, we still have a lot of work to do. Too often, the issue of LGBT rights is exploited by those seeking to divide us. But at its core, this issue is about who we are as Americans. It's about whether this nation is going to live up to its founding promise of equality by treating all its citizens with dignity and respect." Barack Obama, June 1, 2007

Expand Hate Crimes Statutes: In 2004, crimes against LGBT Americans constituted the third-highest category of hate crime reported and made up more than 15 percent of such crimes. President Obama cosponsored legislation that would expand federal jurisdiction to include violent hate crimes perpetrated because of race, color, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity, or physical disability. As a state senator, President Obama passed tough legislation that made hate crimes and conspiracy to commit them against the law.

Fight Workplace Discrimination: President Obama supports the Employment Non-Discrimination Act, and believes that our anti-discrimination employment laws should be expanded to include sexual orientation and gender identity. While an increasing number of employers have extended benefits to their employees' domestic partners, discrimination based on sexual orientation in the workplace occurs with no federal legal remedy. The President also sponsored legislation in the Illinois State Senate that would ban employment discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation.

Support Full Civil Unions and Federal Rights for LGBT Couples: President Obama supports full civil unions that give same-sex couples legal rights and privileges equal to those of married couples. Obama also believes we need to repeal the Defense of Marriage Act and enact legislation that would ensure that the 1,100+ federal legal rights and benefits currently provided on the basis of marital status are extended to same-sex couples in civil unions and other legally-recognized unions. These rights and benefits include the right to assist a loved one in times of emergency, the right to equal health insurance and other employment benefits, and property rights.

Sex Marriage: President Obama voted against the Federal Marriage Amendment in 2006 which would have defined marriage as between a man and a woman and prevented judicial extension of marriage-like rights to same-sex or other unmarried couples.

Repeal Don't Ask-Don't Tell: President Obama agrees with former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff John Shalikashvili and other military experts that we need to repeal the "don't ask, don't tell" policy. The key test for military service should be patriotism, a sense of duty, and a willingness to serve. Discrimination should be prohibited. The U.S. government has spent millions of dollars replacing troops kicked out of the military because of their sexual orientation. Additionally, more than 300 language experts have been fired under this policy, including more than 50 who are fluent in Arabic. The President will work with military leaders to repeal the current policy and ensure it helps accomplish our national defense goals.

Expand Adoption Rights: President Obama believes that we must ensure adoption rights for all couples and individuals, regardless of their sexual orientation. He thinks that a child will benefit from a healthy and loving home, whether the parents are gay or not.

Promote AIDS Prevention: In the first year of his presidency, President Obama will develop and begin to implement a comprehensive national HIV/AIDS strategy that includes all federal agencies. The strategy will be designed to reduce HIV infections, increase access to care and reduce HIV-related health disparities. The President will support common sense approaches including age-appropriate sex education that includes information about contraception, combating infection within our prison population through education and contraception, and distributing contraceptives through our public health system. The President also supports lifting the federal ban on needle exchange, which could dramatically reduce rates of infection among drug users. President Obama has also been willing to confront the stigma -- too often tied to homophobia -- that continues to surround HIV/AIDS.

Empower Women to Prevent HIV/AIDS: In the United States, the percentage of women diagnosed with AIDS has quadrupled over the last 20 years. Today, women account for more than one quarter of all new HIV/AIDS diagnoses. President Obama introduced the Microbicide Development Act, which will accelerate the development of products that empower women in the battle against AIDS. Microbicides are a class of products currently under development that women apply topically to prevent transmission of HIV and other infections.

ALBANY, NY—Elizabeth Benjamin's The Daily Politics reported on January 23 that The Empire State Pride Agenda released a statement this morning saying it has received assurances from the junior-senator-in-waiting, Kirsten Gillibrand, that she supports gay marriage - an issue that could prove troublesome when she has to defend her new seat against a potential challenge from the left in 2010.

ESPA Executive Director Alan Van Capelle and Gillibrand apparently chatted last night after it became clear she was Paterson's pick (although supposedly that wasn't a sure thing until sometime around 2 a.m. this morning).

"After talking to Kirsten Gillibrand, I am very happy to say that New York is poised to have its first U.S. Senator who supports marriage equality for same-sex couples," Van Capelle said.

"She also supports the full repeal of the federal DOMA (Defense of Marriage Act) law, repeal of Don't Ask Don't Tell (DADT) and passage of legislation outlawing discrimination against transgender people. While we had a productive discussion about a whole range of LGBT concerns, I was particularly happy to hear where she stands on these issues."

This is a huge issue for ESPA, especially given the tenuous state of the gay marriage bill in Albany in the wake of the state Senate leadership battle.

Evidently Gillibrand is moving fast to push back against criticism from the more liberal wing of the Democratic Party that she is too conservative to hold Clinton's seat. Keep in mind, Clinton herself supported civil unions, but never went the whole way and backed same-sex marriage - a bone of contention in the gay community.

Then again, Barack Obama didn't, either.

As for Gillibrand, her gay marriage position has definitely evolved. Consider what she told Inside/Out, a gay publication in the Hudson Valley, for its January/February 2009 edition:

"What I'd like to do legislatively, on the federal level - and I think we'll be able to do this with the new president - is actually make civil unions legal in all 50 states, make it the law of the land."

"Because what you want to fundamentally do is protect the rights and privileges of committed couples, so that they can have Medicare benefits, visit in the hospitals, have adoption rights. All [the] things that we give to married couples, committed gay couples should be eligible for. And then the question of whether you call it a marriage or not, what you label it, that can be left to the states to decide."

"[It's] so culturally oriented. My mom's generation, they want their gay friends to have every right and privilege that they should be eligible for as a married couple, but they feel uncomfortable calling it marriage. To them, a marriage is a religious word that they learned from the Catholic Church: It's a covenant between a man, a woman, and God. So they feel uncomfortable with the word. But they don't feel uncomfortable with the rights and privileges."

"I think the way you win this issue is you focus on getting the rights and privileges protected throughout the entire country, and then you do the state-by-state advocacy for having the title."

COLOMBIA, BOLIVIA—Bolivia's new constitution, approved by 61 percent of voters last month, bans discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity. The constitution took effect Feb. 7. According to New York-based Latino activist Andrés Duque, Article 14.II, titled "Fundamental Rights and Guarantees," reads, "The State prohibits and punishes all forms of discrimination founded on the basis of sex, skin color, gender, age, sexual orientation and gender identity, origin, culture, nationality, citizenship, language, religious beliefs, ideology, political or philosophical affiliation."

PORTUGAL—Jose Socrates, has announced that he supports gay marriage. According to Life Site News, a conservative religious "news" site, the announcements has set off a firestorm in the country, which remains fairly conservative and with a majority of practicing Roman Catholics, despite electing a socialist party.

"This is the moment for the PS, in its national congress, to affirm its desire to propose to Portuguese society the right to civil marriage for people of the same sex," Socrates told a rally. "As far as I know, after doing this in our country, we won't be the last to do so. I also want to say that the values that inspire us when we propose this change to the Portuguese people are the values that have always been in the heart of the PS."

Perhaps not altogether unexpectedly the church didn't waste any time reacting to the call. The secretary of the Catholic Episcopal Conference of Portugal, P. Manuel Morujao, however, somewhat surprisingly objected only weakly to the proposal.

Gay Rights Tidbits: Historic Domestic Partnership Legislation Introduced Sen. Eleanor Sobel (Hallandale Beach) has introduced a statewide Domestic Partnership bill (SB 1642). Equality Florida has been working closely with Sen. Sobel in preparing this historic legislation. The companion bill will be sponsored in the house by Rep. Richard Steinberg (Miami Beach). As a Miami Beach City Commissioner, Rep. Steinberg played a key role in passing Florida's strongest Domestic Partnership policy.

The introduction of these domestic partnership bills comes at a time when public support is at an all time high for this legislation. The latest polls show 77% of Floridians in favor of extending benefits to unmarried couples.

It also comes as a South Florida hospital is embroiled in a lawsuit for refusing to grant a woman access to her partner as she lay dying at Jackson Memorial Hospital. The case has provoked international outrage and highlights the vulnerability gay couples face when there is no legal framework to protect their families.

If passed, this bill would ensure committed, unmarried couples throughout Florida have access to basic legal rights like visiting each other in the hospital.

Many places in Florida already understand the importance of offering domestic partner protections. Miami Dade County enacted domestic partner benefits in the past year, as did the cities of Sarasota and Orlando.

Civil Rights Protections

Senator Ted Deutch (Delray Beach) has introduced a Civil Rights bill that would make it illegal to fire someone, deny them housing or access to public accommodations because they are LGBT. Florida is one of thirty states where it is legal to discriminate in housing and employment based on sexual orientation and gender identity.

Rep. Kelly Skidmore (Boca Raton) has already introduced the House version (HB 397) and Equality Florida is continuing to build on the twenty co-sponsors already signed up.

It is against current Florida law to discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, marital status or familial status. These bills would add sexual orientation and gender identity to already protected classes.

Equality Florida applauds Senator Deutch, Representative Skidmore and Senator Sobel and Representative Steinberg for sponsoring these vital bills.
