HOROSCOPE by Jacqueline

Like the earth emerging from a solar eclipse, so will our perceptions of the world around us. We begin this month with Mercury going into Libra on the 3rd, this emergence sheds a different light to issues brought forth by the recent retrograde. However, with the New Moon in Libra on the 7th, it affords us the ability to redefine our views of those in our life with a new perspective and meaning. However, when Venus goes retrograde in Scorpio on the 8th we must be attune to our surroundings to ensure that we do not get caught up in suspicion but learn to build a deeper, true relationship with those you love. As these feelings intensify as the Sun goes into Scorpio on the 23rd and cumulates with Mercury on the 29th, remain true to yourself, your feelings and your partner and allow all suspicion to dissipate. The full moon on the 22nd is a void of coarse moon, which means that emotions will be torn between what they feel and what is actually going on until the next full Moon. Finally on the 28th Mars goes into Sagittarius giving all the choice to escape or understand the truth.

Aries March 23 - April 22 Use caution be thrown and choose your words wisely. This is a transitional time for friendship and family matters, think twice before you speak as all will hang on to your every word or gesture. However, don't over analyze your words; speak from your heart as you are being taught how to speak the truth, while teaching others in the process. Success is coming to a balance for you and others are along for the ride.

Taurus April 23 - May 22 With Venus and Mars opposing your sign, you're inclined towards making changes in your appearance and attitude bringing you closer to your true self. Realize that anything is possible when you possess the proper attitude and self-confidence. Now is the time to bring your ship onto the shore and expand horizons and see where your newfound interest leads you. You may be pleasantly surprised.

Gemini May 23 - June 22 Like a "who done it" of yester year, deception and intrigue are in the air. Learn to ask more questions and think twice before you speak. Be clear and precise when communicating with others or you may find yourself disillusioned by others. Take the necessary time to look at yourself and discard what has not been working for you. All you have to do is change your actions and the situation will change.

Cancer June 23 - July 22 The planets are lining up nicely for you this month, affording you the opportunity to take the necessary time for yourself and dropping old habits. Take your time as you build a new foundation in your life, move slowly, relax, and don't rush headlong into something that you may not want. Stay with what makes you happy and allow others to find their bliss.

Leo July 23 - August 22 Life is changing all around you and it's not within your control. Don't be grouchy, angry or closed minded as these changes have been in the works for a long time and they're for the better. Let your guard down and check your emotions; sit back and allow it to happen. Once the dust settles, you can take

For the close reader, you've already noticed that the Body Talk column is gone. While we freely admit that the header on that page was a personal favorite on the other hand we need columnists that can meet deadline. We can't tell you how much we appreciate Ronald Blake's contributions at this point it's all we can do to get the magazine out without having to chase down missing columns (and yes, we do send out deadline reminders). So we'll use the room for our other content and hopefully some new ads!

The Living Room Titusville social, every second Wednesday at the Holiday Inn at I-95 & 50, at 6:30, is growing into a wonderful networking and socializing event. Host Mike Connley has done a Speaking of ads, did you notice that the King Center is back with an ad for Lisa Lampanelli? Had this old queen all turned around – we were scribbling notes and wrote Liza so when the ad appeared it wasn't Liza at all! It was Lisa!!! Have to get new batteries for the hearing aid! November 5th is the date; get your tickets now for Lisa Lampanelli.

Over at Cold Keg you don't need tickets for the $10 all you can drink well and draft special on Wednesdays' Goth and Leather & Lace night. Now there's a deal for you! And for those who bitch about too much drag, here's a night with a completely different look and sound. We're going to press before Orlando Heat makes their appearance at what should be a packed boys night out – we'll have pictures for you next month. JoJo is continuing the Cold Keg tradition of hosting benefits regularly to help out a wide variety people and causes. They helped send Dominique to Chicago for the Miss Continental contest and just helped Brevard NOW raise funds for victims of domestic abuse, a hidden problem in our community. Careful observers note that there is more donated than use of the bar, there's cash contributed too, whether bidding on an auction item or an outright gift.

One thing we have wondered though is where are the local, Brevard, queens? You can count on Miss Christine, and Lacy's right there to sing live but last I looked there were quite a number of other performers in the area. I hear so many excuses but the bottom line is: when the call goes out do what's right, regardless of feelings toward others who are participating and give up a Sunday every now and again.

You may wonder why Kelli Randell organizes them all? Because no one else will! You hear queens at pageants saying they want to reach out to community, show how proud they are, show that they're more than wigs and gowns, yet when the time comes to give back, where are they? Not their cause, you say? Then what is their cause and when and where is the benefit they're putting on?

Levelz is putting on a concert the first Wednesday in October, the southern rock band Rehab will be performing so Lipstick & Lollipops will take a break and return November 3. Seems the groups was booked months ago and they couldn't change the date so if you're into the band Rehab, or southern rock, check them out on 10/6 – otherwise we'll see you on 11/3.

Up at the Ultra Lounge things were jumping, er, bending at their luau party, which was also a birthday celebration for Tony and Jesse – complete with a rainbow of cupcakes! Stephanie went all out cooking up something special for Tony and the two of them put on a great party for the rest of us. Kelli Randell will be there on October 2 for the first time so come on up, it'll be great!

Spiritually Speaking

"Come out, come out, wherever you are!"

~ Glinda, the Good Witch of the North, to the Munchkins in The Wizard of Oz ~

A guy walks into a bar. He's ordering some drinks when he notices that there are two large pieces of meat stuck to the ceiling. So he asks the barman why they're there. The barman says, "Well, it's part of a little game I have going here. You've got to try and get those down from the ceiling without using a chair or a pool cue or anything else. If you manage, I'll give you $200. But if you try it and you don't succeed, you've gotta give me $200."

So the guy eyes up the ceiling for a while, and eventually turns back to the barman and says, "No, I'm not going to try it." Of course, the barman says, "Why not? Look it's easy, all you've gotta do is get them down off the ceiling." And the guy shakes his head and says, "No, no, I can't do it. The steaks are too high."

I know a corny joke when I see one and when I tell one. But, a good clean joke to make a point is my point; that's if you know the difference between 'steaks' and 'stakes.' Then the joke becomes clear. In the same way, one must understand the context of words to understand the thought being portrayed. Take for example National Coming Out Day celebrated October 11th. If you don't have the proper education on what this is all about, one could really abuse themselves in surmising National Coming Out Day as perhaps akin to April Fool's Day, a non-legal holiday celebrated as a day tolerating hoaxes and practical jokes with the aim on embarrassing the stupid and the naïve. This could, of course, backfire—literally as the April 1st, 1946 Aleutian Island earthquake tsunami that killed 165 people in Hawaii and Alaska. People literally drowned because they thought the reports and warnings were an April Fool's Day prank. That's no laughing matter.

National Coming Out Day raises awareness for the LGBT community

National Coming Out Day was created in 1988 in celebration of the Second March on Washington for Lesbian and Gay Rights (1987), in which 500,000 people lobbied for sexual equality. The annual day is aimed at elevating awareness of and for the LGBT community, in addition to educate non-gays of the reality of much needed justice and tolerance for those of 'alternative lifestyles.' The founders of this day, Rob Eichberg, Ph.D. and Jean O'Leary encouraged people of all orientations to take their next step in living openly and powerfully on October 11th by wearing gay pride symbols.

This is not just an American celebration, but an international one as many nations participate in this most serious and dare I say spiritual invitation to be who we are. Not only Shakespeare, who said: "To thine own self be true;" but the Bible speaks to personal integrity and unashamed orientation. The Psalmist, praying to God, says: "Surely, You desire truth in the inner parts; You teach me wisdom in the inmost place" (Psalm 51:6). Our Creator sees us for who we are—so should we. And for some of us it is a journey of self discovery deep within. And from that place of self discovery comes the gift of wisdom to live out the reality of who we are. God, who knows our soul's secrets and most intimate feelings, gives us discernment and perception to BE. But, we must 'come out' from the place of fear and confusion in order to BE and live.

The Truth will set you free...Sexual Orientation is NOT a sin!

Jesus, addressing believers and unbelievers in John chapter 8 says: "If you hold to my teaching...then you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free." Then many who heard him took offense since Jesus spoke in terms of slaves being set free. They launched into their family tree. 'We are not slaves or ever have been', they counter. Indeed, Father Abraham is a good pedigree to descend from. But, Jesus speaks of being slaves to sin, not men. And sin is bad behavior, not ethnic, religious, gender, or sexual orientation. The truth is many are slaves to guilt and shame because they have mistakenly been branded as 'sinful' due to their sexual orientation. We have come a mighty long way in understanding that a personal viewpoint

In My Words

Some months ago, the Supreme Court of these United States interpreted the definition of "individual" to include corporations. One of the huge changes this brought about was in the way Corporations could donate to political candidates, and through their donations, the amount of influence their dollars could buy. It struck me as wrong then, and continues to bother me when it comes to mind. Finally I have realized what there is about this interpretation of the law that has resonated so deeply in me.

It is simply this: That pronouncement by the Supremes has put us one step closer to a situation where we will no longer be able to honestly claim status as a Republic that functions at the will of its people. I purposely do not use the word Democracy because it was never the intent of the Founding Fathers that we be a true Democracy. The United States of America was set up to be a Republic. It could make some claim to being a Democracy because power through election of representatives did reside with the people. The problem was that the vote was only available to certain well-born citizens. One had to be male. One had to be Caucasian and of European ancestry. One had to own land. One had to be of means. Women, Native Americans, non-whites, sharecroppers... none of these need show themselves at the polling places. So, unless a resident of this new land fit the criteria established for voting, he or she had very little influence on the government and thus on how that government effected his or her life.

From those early days until now there was at least an attempt to widen the number of those who might vote. Restrictions were eliminated and amendments to the Constitution were passed so that every citizen who reached the required age and had met the minimal requirements for registration could then take part in the process, and participate in the election of those who would lead their country. Color barriers came down, women's suffrage succeeded and poll taxes were declared illegal and done away with. Unions strengthened the position of the workers, bringing about the election of politicians who seemed to respect the aims and aspirations of the "common" man and woman.

Slowly, ever so slowly the melting pot was stirred. The great migrations that brought immigrants here also added to the strengths of the country itself. People came. People came and went to work in the sweatshops and factories because they believed in the American Dream, and their belief was without reservation. They worked and saved, spilled their blood and pushed their children toward an education that would elevate them on the ladder of success. Even if it was one rung at a time and per generation, people believed their children would do better and their grandchildren even better still. They believed it and to many, it happened. Poor people aspired to "middle Class," and the Middle Class could aspire, if not to huge wealth, at least to reaching a status of comfort that was essentially free of day-to-day financial worries.

The American Society advanced. Any boy could have been elected president, or so the saying went. That was then, many believed the dream. But times change.

The last "everyman" president was Harry S Truman. Since that time, all of our Presidents have been people of wealth. Most people who reach national or even statewide office are people of wealth. People without a great deal of money are generally frozen out. Millionaires, even billionaires, are buying their way into office by staging media blitzes that the average man or woman can never, ever equal. The wealthy, as never before are in a position to wag the tail of Government.

Soon, very soon we will see the results of the Supreme Court's ruling that because Corporations are now being seen as individuals, they can donate to candidates with no greater restrictions than those imposed on any individual. The wealth of those at the top of the financial heap can now be used to buy unprecedented television, radio, newspapers and internet advertising, presenting a barrage to the perspective voter, and truth is not always the prime motivator.

The prime motivator is power. Corporations will donate to candidates and buy media time for them for reasons that are simple enough. They wish to increase their power and preserve their financial status. Proof of that was seen when the Corporation behind the Target Department Store chain donated $150,000.00 to a virulently anti-gay Conservative Republican candidate in the State where the corporate office is located.

Virgo August 23 – September 22 The time of harvest always leaves you restless, especially this one because you've been constantly in motion for months now and are being called to slow down and reexamine the progress. This will make you question the loyalties of others and yourself. Look towards what your goal is and how to get there, not what mistakes have been made along the way.

Libra September 23 – October 22 Happy solar return to all my fellow Libras! With Mercury Saturn and the Sun in your sign this month, you're being called to speak out for others and teach them about the other side of the coin. Use caution when dealing with Aquarius, Taurus, and Leo individuals, they may be only looking for vindication and not the truth. Most importantly, you're being seen as the leader now. Take away your emotion and judgment and be the diplomat.

Scorpio October 23 – November 22 With Mars and Venus in your sign this month, it's time to charge forward with what you love. However, Venus will go retrograde on the 8th, allowing you to see if it's truly what you really love or a false desire. Don't be surprised if you find yourself making sudden changes in your plans, they will only draw you closer to what you love.

Sagittarius November 23 – December 22 The fire that has burnt so brightly of late has now dimmed as air and water dominate the sky. See this as an opportunity for you to sit back and gather information. I know you're a straight shooter, but sometimes you have to take a break and let the forces of nature take its turn. Relax and don't be judgmental or you'll find yourself suspicious of everybody's motivations. Judge them on their actions not words and focus on your happiness.

Capricorn December 23 – January 22 Since life is still moving in a slower pace than you would like now, you're looking for a deeper passion in your life. You have the time, so follow and see where it leads. You may find your true self in the journey even though the path isn't clearly visible right now. The air and water dominating our sky will move and then you will get a clear view, until then, you are being called to go within and have faith in you and not what you see.

Aquarius January 23 – February 22 You're being called to make some major decisions this month, especially financially. Don't move in haste. You have the time to discuss all the directions that are available. Take the time to examine them before making your decision.

sexual orientation is NOT a sin. That is why days that celebrate gay pride and awareness should foster open-mindedness. But in addition, the 'slave mentality' of the past needs to be thrown off and left behind as part of our LGBT ancestor's dark history of hiding in closets of fear and misunderstanding. Days of inquisition, torture, and execution are not over; as present day intolerant nations continue to de-humanize homosexuals.

May we of all faith traditions join hands and pray for the day of truth and justice, where "Love and faithfulness meet together;" and where "righteousness and peace kiss each other." May that Day speedily come...And let us all say, Amen.

There may be obstacles in your way, but they are there to improve your problem solving skills and confidence in your goals.

Pisces February 23 – March 22 Last month brought a great empowerment to you. However, this month brings a change because of that empowerment. Now is the time to reevaluate your commitment to others and see if it is a worthy venue or if you must back out of those obligations. You're being called to only focus on what truly serves you and allow the rest to pass by with out guilt and you'll find your truth there.

For those who want to know: This month the majority of the planets are in water and air. Neptune in Aquarius mixes the 2 energies. Neptune Rules the oceans and bodies of water, it is ruled by Pisces, the fish, and the last of the zodiac signs. It is the intuitive and spiritual planet. It moves very slowly. Neptune takes 14 years to go through 1 sign and 165 years to go through all 12. With it retrograde in Aquarius, we all are being called to choose our path, either strive for the higher spirit and compassion for those in our life or become the victim from mistakes made in the past.

We're sad to note the complete closing of East Coast Christian Community church (the Melbourne service had stopped quite some time ago). They started out as East Coast Metropolitan Community Church and had services in both Melbourne and Ft. Pierce/Port St. Lucie and did many good things for our community over the years. Back when we were young, just after trees were invented, no one talked about gay anything except in quiet slurs and muttered epithets. That was not a good thing for a youth's self-esteem then so I really can't imagine growing up now where every mention of Gay seems to send elected politicians, candidates and so-called religious leaders into frenzies of condemnation with each tea bagger trying to be more mean and evil than the next (you do know

They explained to their employees that they did this because through this candidate they could most likely secure a more favorable tax break. So, it amounted to an attitude that says, "to hell with our gay patrons, we need to feed our already profitable bottom line!" This is but one example of the wave of the future.

People of wealth will continue to interfere with and out-right buy elections. People who will not benefit from the election of these individuals will continue to vote for them because they believe the lie. They believe that the influence of their vote makes them an equal partner in the process, when all the while the influence they might have had is shrinking away just as the Middle Class itself is being bled dry and also shrinking away. The people are becoming angry with government. Much of their anger is directed at the President because they too believe the myth that "the buck stops here." The fact is, this President, as likely no other before him, is at the mercy of a group of corporate influenced types who would not back an absolute cure for cancer if this president was behind it. Those at the opposite end of the Political spectrum have as much as said that this President must not succeed.

Yet people back these obstructionists. They back them with their votes and in so doing they vote against their own best-interests. By doing so, these people who swear to love the country, are greasing the slide that hurtles us toward the day when there will be no real influence in this country except that meted out by the very wealthy and the corporate "individuals." The Middle Class will not be preserved as the slide toward poverty continues. The poor will become poorer. The wealth of this country will continue to be owned by the top two or three percent of its citizens, and Congress will continue to pass laws to their benefit. Those at the top of the heap will reign as the Oligarchs of this New Age. This Republic that aspired to be a true Democracy will continue to degenerate into the Oligarchy it is rapidly becoming.

Thank you Mr. Webster for the following:
Oligarch: a member or supporter of an Oligarchy;
Oligarchy: a government in which a small group exercises control especially for corrupt and selfish purposes

Joseph Sondag, a self-taught contemporary artist, expressed an interest in art and exhibited exceptional talent from a very early age. During his teen years he accepted many private and corporate commissions. At the age of 17 Joseph moved to Miami where he worked as an illustrator in a local publishing house. Joseph has designed greeting cards as well as a line of handcrafted home décor (Bohemian Chic). He is currently exhibiting in Art Fusion Gallery in Miami. Joseph lives in Sebastian and can be contacted at Joseph3760@msn.com.

that out west they're calling for the re-criminalization of homosexuality, right?). And with the religious "leaders" and politicians (including school boards) foaming at the mouth you can hardly expect support for gay youth to exist. Yet there are GSAs at most of our area high schools and colleges but what if you're not in school? Where do you turn for support if you're over 18 and not in college? Well, Crosswinds Youth Services is now offering a GLBTQ Young Adult Support Group in Cocoa on the first Tuesday of each month at 5 PM at the Crosswinds Youth Services offices, 1407 Dixon Blvd. The group is open to all GLBTQs 18-23. For more information call 321-452-0800, extension 122.

Dominique thanks the performers and audience at her benefit at the Cold Keg.

Tony's birthday cake. Stephanie baked her heart out on this fabulous treat!

And finally, we want to thank Steve Kettman for allowing us to use his penthouse for our cover shoot.

Gay Right tidbit: The general election in November is right around the corner. Make sure you vote because it is really important. It's the only way we can be a force to be reckoned with. Show your Pride: be registered and vote!

The babbling idiot-box idiots are already saying that the Republicans and tea baggers have won, prove them wrong by voting.

Consider this: the only jobs a politician creates is when they hire cronies. When they cut taxes they just raise fees (got your license renewed recently?). So don't fall for false reasoning, if you want change you have to follow through and support change by continuing to get rid of those who want to go back to the system that ruined our economy.

And remember, on Florida Constitutional Amendments, remember: 4, 5 & 6: YES!

The Cold Keg hosted a great benefit for Brevard NOW's Take Back the Night campaign to help victims of domestic violence.

Don't see your event mentioned? Did you tell me about it? I'm a fairy, not a seer, silly! Let me know, drop a line to MissT@ootcmag.com
